My dearest Mamma,

You were so good to send me the lovely picture. Everyone thinks it is just as dear as it can be and so do I.

I have so many people to thank for things, I didn't quite know to whom I would write. Dick sent me some extra money and a lovely letter, it was short, but it was sweet, so you tell him "thank you" this time and I'll write him next week.

News isn't very plentiful this week except that I studied and studied and studied some more. I thought you might be interested in my French and English exams. If you aren't, you needn't bother to look at them. They can go in my desk because I'm going to put them in my "memorabilia"

I can hardly wait for tomorrow to come. Helen's letter came the night before exams, the one telling me what time to meet them; and I was just as happy as could be, even in the face of threatening dangers.

I had a fine long letter from Julie the other day. She's had tonsillitis and has had to stay out of school. Did Betty know it? Bertha writes me nice, newy letters too, but Peggy seems to have other things on her mind as I haven't heard from her for a long time.

With love, from your Jannie.

Thank somebody for the money. I don't don't whether you or Papa sent it, but I thank you very much. Don't let the kids skate on the river too much, will you?
